

Climate exposure is read through fire state.

The red line is daily VPD scaled within each fire. The blue bars are daily growth. The same exposure can occur before, during, or after rapid expansion.

State models use only information available by day t.

Adding current state improves near-term growth models

VPD relationship depends on current growth state

